

It's Your Newsletter

Welcome to the Geology Adviser, a one-stop source for Geology majors to learn about the latest news regarding courses, class schedules, registration information, relevant campus and departmental news, and upcoming field camp and intern programs.

Your coordinator, Eileen Fahey (Room 412,) is the point person for many of your questions and concerns, and can provide you with helpful info as you move forward with your major. The faculty are always on hand to respond to your inquiries regarding your major and general coursework. Email them or call to make an appointment. Check the Geology web page for faculty office hours.

Another good source for learning how to process the dreaded paperwork that is often required of a Middlebury student are the Registrar's Office and Dean of Student Affairs in Forest Hall.

As Geology Majors, you'll be spending time in the field. Be sure to outfit yourself with appropriate gear specific to the weather and environment you'll be exploring. Check with your faculty for more information.

Field Camps for 2005-2006 So Far:

Lake Champlain, Vermont

Geology Club

Geologists are interested in other things beyond fieldwork, although at times, that might seem hard to believe. A few times a month, we have Geology Snack Time—it's a fun way to communicate with colleagues outside the classroom setting to talk about all things related to earth and water, as well as the latest activities on campus. Look for notices about snack time on the big blackboards! Just show up for a time-out with "like kind" and eat a little food – it's sort of a happy hour for rock tumbler. Volunteers are needed to procure refreshments—you'll be reimbursed by the department.

Geology Faculty 2005

Ray Coish	Room 426
Patricia Manley	Room 427
Dave West, Dept. Chair	Room 428
Pete Ryan	Room 429
Jeff Munroe (on leave)	Room 414
Tom Manley	Room 415

Special points of interest:

- We have books and videos galore, Room 412
- Check out the flyers and posters in the south wing of the 4th Floor for field camp and internship information
- Did you find your cubby at the end of the hall yet? Do you need one? Ask Eileen, Room 412.