Ski School: Not Just for Kids

Weekend mornings at the Snow Bowl, you know it’s ski school time when you see kids meeting their instructors by the bell outside the lodge. After breaking into their groups by age and ability, they scatter to various lifts and trails all over the bowl for the next hour of fun. Clinics for children are also available weekday afternoons during the holiday and February school vacations.

What is not so obvious is that many adults also take advantage of the ski and snowboard programs that the Snow Bowl Ski School has to offer. Susan Davis, Ski School Director, notes that both the Winter and Spring Series of ski and snowboard clinics are for anyone ages six through adult. There is also a Wednesday Morning Adults Series of 90 minute clinics for adults of all abilities, from beginner to expert. These clinics, meeting from 10:30 to noon, are great for faculty and staff who have flexible schedules, and Susan says about one-third of the adults in the Wednesday morning classes are faculty, staff, or their spouses.

Susan points out that the clinic fee includes a lift ticket for the half-day surrounding the lesson. It’s a good way for people to learn how to ski or ride or improve their skills without breaking the bank.

Roughly fifty instructors are available through the Ski School, and they all appreciate the challenge of working with students of all ages and abilities. “The focus is on the guest,” says Susan. She notes that taking lessons can really help accelerate a skier’s journey; the instructors “can help you learn alternative approaches that work for you,” because everyone learns to ski or ride at a different pace, and it’s the instructor’s job to recognize that and figure out, “how can I help this person who is struggling?”

The Bowl’s instructors are dedicated to helping their students learn and grow. Cross-learning, a ski instructor learning how to snowboard or a boarding instructor learning how to ski, is encouraged because as Susan says, “instructors can identify much more successfully with their students if they experience the terror of a new sport.”

When a student finally gets enough control to take off on their own, they realize it was “so worth it,” says Susan. Will Pyle (Economics) and his wife Silvia took the Wednesday Morning Adult series two (continued on page 2)
College requires emergency evacuation plans from students; Requests cell phone numbers from entire community

The College's need for emergency planning has created some urgent tasks for members of the Middlebury College community.

As announced earlier this fall, all students are required to provide a Personal Evacuation Plan in BannerWeb prior to registering for the Spring 2008 term. Students have been advised via e-mail, The Campus, table tent cards, and other means, said John Emerson, Dean of Planning, and yet many students have not filed their evacuation plans.

With Round I “practice” registration now open, students are finding that their access is blocked if they haven’t filled out their evacuation plan. And with the actual registration for second semester set to begin Nov. 19, college officials anticipate that many more students will need to comply with the requirement.

The College hopes students have discussed their evacuation plans with their family and friends, Emerson explains, because students must identify two locations to which they would likely travel in the event of a sudden campus closing. Middlebury also asks students if they would be willing to provide other students with a ride and/or temporary shelter.

The Emergency Planning Steering Committee, co-chaired by Provost Alison Byerly and Dean Emerson, has also introduced “AlertFind” to the campus. AlertFind is a broadcast notification system that will provide emergency communications college-wide via office phones, e-mail, cell phones, text messages, and home phones.

“The recent events at Virginia Tech and the train derailment right here in Middlebury point out the need for us to be able to reach community members in a swift and efficient manner,” Emerson observed.

Therefore, all students and employees of the College have been asked to log into BannerWeb, select “Personal Information,” and enter the requested data -- including cell phone numbers -- before the Thanksgiving Break starting Nov. 21.

“Student, faculty, and staff cell phone numbers will not appear in the printed directory or in the on-line directory,” Emerson said, “but in this day and age people are making a mistake if they are not willing to provide us with their cell phone numbers for a real emergency.”

For faculty and staff information about AlertFind, go to: http://go.middlebury.edu/emerg?facstaff

Fight the Cold Auction

Help raise money for home heating vouchers for local families by donating to Wonnacott Common’s 3rd Annual Fight the Cold Auction! In past years, faculty and staff have donated everything from home-cooked meals to hand-crocheted bikini tops, copies of their books to snowboarding lessons. Anything goes! The silent auction runs from mid-November until December 7. Contact Emily Nelson (enelson@middlebury.edu) for details or to make a donation.

seasons ago. Will says, “We decided to start because our boys had begun with lessons the year before, and we didn’t want to be left too far behind. Silvia and I were entirely new to the sport so we took the ‘beginners’ class. It was a small group initially, but we were quickly split into two groups so Silvia and I were the only students in ours. It was fantastic in terms of the individual attention from the instructors. We both continued to ski last winter, and it’s turned into perhaps our most anticipated and fun whole-family experience.”

...it was a ton of fun and I highly recommend it.”

Jessica Holmes, also an Economics professor, took the lessons last year. She says, “I have been a skier since I was three, but when my kids and husband started snowboarding, I decided to learn. Last winter, I ventured over to the ‘dark side’ and voluntarily agreed to strap both feet onto the same board. I took lessons every Wednesday morning with Jason Chance (LIS), and it was a blast! While I still prefer two boards rather than one, I’m happy I can actually string a few turns together on a snowboard. Still can’t keep up with the kids, but it was a ton of fun and I highly recommend it.”

Besides group clinics, private lessons are available as well. Susan highly recommends calling ahead to schedule a private lesson in order to alert staff and try to make the best match between instructor and student. If you want to learn with friends, Susan says that if you have three adults who are at the same level and pace, they’ll make it a group lesson.

Consider lessons at the Snow Bowl if you want to learn a new sport or take your skills to a new level. Register for all programs on the web at www.middleburysnowbowl.com, by filling out one of the green forms available at the Ski School desk in the lodge, or by phone (388-4356) after December 5. This year there is an Employee Ski Day in mid-December (see page 3), a great time to sample what the Ski School has to offer.

To all members of the Middlebury College Staff:

Please join me and members of the President’s Staff on Thursday, November 29 at 9:00-10:30 in Dana Auditorium. Coffee and light refreshments will be available, and you are welcome to join us when you can and leave the meeting when you need to.

Although I plan to begin the meeting with some brief updates, I hope that much of our time together can be devoted to a conversation about topics of interest to staff members. With this goal in mind, I invite you to submit to the Staff Council in advance any questions or interests that you have that could guide a part of our agenda. Please send an e-mail message or a note through campus mail to the Staff Council (or to Carol Peddie, President of Staff Council) by 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, November 27, indicating your questions or interests in topics to be considered.

I look forward to seeing you on November 29.

Ways to get engaged in the life of the College

When it comes to events at Middlebury, people say: “There’s so much happening on campus that it’s hard to keep track of it all,” or “Aside from checking all the bulletin boards, how can I ever find out what’s going on?”

There’s The Campus, MiddPoints, MiddNews, and the on-line calendar. A more targeted way to get connected is to subscribe to campus newsletters (both print and electronic) or visit the web sites that interest you.

We live in an era when an avalanche of print and electronic communications compete for your attention every day. At the same time, we strive to be a community where staff is engaged in the life of the college. So, Communications has compiled a “stay informed and get involved” listing for the campus.

Admittedly, our list is not all-inclusive. If your campus group or organization has an e-mail communications tool or printed newsletter to share, please contact the MiddPoints Editor for publication in a future issue.

To find out more about:

Athletics — Subscribe to SportNotes, a weekly e-mail, at www.middlebury.edu/athletics.

Cafecito Luncheon Lectures — Visit www.middlebury.edu/campuslife/diversity/calendar/cafe and send an RSVP via e-mail to Jennifer Herrera (jherrera@middlebury.edu).

Career Services — Visit go.middlebury.edu/cso for the Career Services Office’s newsletters and calendars.

Commons and Student Life — Visit go.middlebury.edu/commons and contact one of the Commons coordinators about becoming a commons affiliate.

Community Service — Visit the Alliance for Civic Engagement home page at go.middlebury.edu/ace for news and events.

Environmental Affairs — Subscribe to Environmental News, an e-newsletter, by sending an e-mail to Diane Munroe (dmunroe@middlebury.edu).

Environmental Colloquium Series — Visit www.middlebury.edu/academics/ump/majors/es/events/woodin/ for the weekly schedule of speakers.

Hirschfield Film/Video Series — Visit the web page go.middlebury.edu/hirschfield.

International Affairs — Receive regular e-mail updates on speakers and events by sending an e-mail to Martha Baldwin (baldwin@middlebury.edu). Ask to be added to the Rohatyn Center’s e-mail list.

Mahaney Center for the Arts — Subscribe to ArtsMail, an e-mail newsletter, at www.middlebury.edu/arts.

Women’s and Gender Studies — Subscribe to the WAGS and Chellis House Newsletter, a print publication, by sending an e-mail to Karin Hanta (khanta@middlebury.edu).

Helpful Web site for emergency planning

As most of you certainly know by now the College has been reviewing and updating its Disaster Plan. The College is doing this because of its responsibility for students and employees. We all should realize that emergencies can happen anytime and we need to be ready whether at work or at home. The Addison County Emergency Planning Committee has come up with a new Web page that I feel deserves our attention. This resource will assist us in preparing a home emergency plan should the need arise. I would like to encourage you to visit this site and take advantage of its resources. You will find it at www.aclepc.org/evac-sip.shtml.

What is Count Paper?

Count Paper is part of an educational/ awareness campaign in response to a charge to LIS from the Community & Environmental Councils to try to reduce the paper waste on campus. The College now has an initiative to be carbon neutral by the year 2016. Being carbon neutral isn’t just about fuel consumption, there are many facets that we will all have to consider to make this initiative a success.

Is somebody keeping track of the stuff I print?

No one records what, when or where you print. Count Paper is a computer program that ticks off how many pages have been printed and then sends out an e-mail to each user with his or her page totals. No one is singled out, and no one sees the e-mail you get from Count Paper before you do! (However, a real person does read messages sent to the countpaper@middlebury.edu e-mail address.)

Why is this happening?

LIS, the Community Council, and the Environmental Council are trying to raise awareness on campus about the environmental impact of printing, both in energy consumption and paper consumption. We hope that receiving an e-mail regarding your printing totals will be informative and allow you to discuss ways to reduce the use of printed materials and the amount of waste those materials generate.

What does the program count?

The figure appearing in the e-mail is the number of pages, not sheets of paper, printed. At this time, the program doesn’t know whether you are printing double sided, so it simply records the number of pages printed for each document. The number of physical pages printed will vary depending upon whether you are using double- or single-sided printing. LIS is working to teach Count Paper to count double-sided print jobs correctly.

What if I already print double sided?

Thank you! If you consistently print double-sided you can determine the approximate number of physical sheets used by dividing the number from your e-mail message by 1.5. Why not divide by 2? Think of all the print jobs that end in an odd number - these all print out an extra page, so dividing by 2 isn’t realistic unless you always print an even number of pages.

Results of Get Moving Middlebury!
Thank you to all who participated in the Get Moving Middlebury walking program this past summer. While many were relaxing by the pool sipping cold lemonade, 4 teams with 16 participants walked in excess of 1,700 miles! In other words, our competitors virtually walked to Chicago and back in the blazing heat. After calculating and computing the information on the walking logs turned in at the end of the walking period, winning teams and exceptional individuals are listed below. Each winner will receive a gift certificate to Middlebury Mountaineer.

Most miles walked (Team)
1st place: Mutt and Jeffs
Loretta Lee
Drew Macan
Perry Richards
Laura Carotenuto
2nd place: Brave Ones
Brook Escobedo
Michelle Nelson
Carol Bushey
Lori Hynes Mackey

Most miles walked (Individual)
1st place: Loretta Lee
2nd place: Drew Macan

Thanks again to the walkers and the members of the Optimal Health Initiative Committee for making this a successful event! Special thanks to Gail Collier for her assistance with registration. Stay tuned for the next competition.

Weight Watchers At-Work
The tenth session of the Weight Watchers At-Work Program at Middlebury College began yesterday, November 15. Meetings are Thursdays at noon in Warner 208. (Please note, the location will shift to Mitchell Green Lounge on December 13). The cost is $144 for 12 weeks, which can be paid in two $72 payments. Check, cash, or credit card payments accepted. People may join at any time during the series. For more information or to register, call Danica Stein, meeting leader, at (802) 287-5704 or e-mail her at furrygirl@comcast.net.
