An excerpt of remarks by Erin Quinn ’86, Director of Athletics, who served as emcee for the evening:

I have been fortunate to have been a coaching colleague with Terry. I coached his son, Travis, in lacrosse at Middlebury and we currently work closely together in Athletics Administration. Through all of these relationships I have developed a great respect and affinity for Terry. He is professional, talented, and he cares deeply for his colleagues, his student-athletes, his family, and for Middlebury College. I know I share with Terry a great love and respect for Middlebury College and the history of our Athletic program. In his retirement, Terry will join the ranks of the great, historic coaches such as Duke Nelson, Stub Mackey, Mickey Heinecken and other great coaches that have graced our sidelines.
