Dr. Chak Fu Lam ’07
Managing Partner, ELM Learning
Assistant Professor of Management and Entrepreneurship, Suffolk University

Dr. Chak Fu’s passion for learning has motivated him to pursue an unusual career path where he is a scholar, a teacher, an entrepreneur, and a volunteer.

As a scholar, he is an assistant professor of Management and Entrepreneurship at Sawyer Business School, Suffolk University. His research examines how organizations create positive organizational cultures and the benefits of positive cultures on organizational effectiveness.

As a teacher, he creates a fun and positive classroom environment through role-play, simulations, and real-life examples. Students from his class learn to speak publicly, work as a team, and grow as leaders.

As an entrepreneur, he is the co-Founder and Managing Partner of Positive Leader, L.L.C., a management consulting company, providing leadership development training, hiring assessment, and executive coaching based on ground-breaking research on positive leadership. He is also the Managing Partner of e-learning Mind, an eLearning design agency that helps companies transform existing learning material into memorable eLearning experiences.

As a volunteer, he dedicates his time and energy to multiple non-profit organizations, such as Asian Entrepreneurship Foundation, National Association of Asian Professional, and Room to Grow.
