Introduction: Matthew Jennings, editorial director for communications
McCullough Student Center, Wilson Hall

Carolyn K Reidy ’71 is delighted to return to Middlebury for her 45th reunion, ever-grateful to the College for its important role in launching her into a life and career that has been more rewarding than she could have ever imagined. Since 2008 Carolyn has been president and CEO of Simon & Schuster Inc., after joining the company in 1992 and holding various executive positions. Prior to that, she worked at Avon Books and Random House, where she began her career in 1976. Over the years she has had the privilege of publishing books by a veritable who’s who of distinguished and prize-winning authors, world figures, celebrities, newsmakers, and journalists. In recent years she has particularly enjoyed leading Simon & Schuster through a period of the most significant changes to the world of publishing in living memory.

Carolyn double majored in English and Russian at Middlebury, and met her husband, Stephen, while here. She then went on to earn an MA and PhD in English from Indiana University (the latter completed after she began working in publishing). Carolyn is a board member and past president of the Association of American Publishers and also serves on the board of the National Book Foundation.
