Virtual info session: Online MA in applied child and adolescent development

October 13, 5 - 6 p.m. CST

Are you interested in a career working with children or adolescents and their families, or creating and implementing practices and policies that support their growth and well-being? Consider an online graduate degree in applied child and adolescent development!

The University of Minnesota Institute of Child Development MA program will provide you with a strong foundation in developmental psychology and an opportunity to specialize in one of three areas: child life, infant and early childhood mental health, or individualized studies.

If you reside in Minnesota, you have the option to take in-person courses through the University of Minnesota College of Continuing and Professional Studies concurrently with infant and early childhood mental health MA coursework to complete LPCC licensure application requirements.
Join us for an info session on Wednesday, October 13 at 5 p.m. CST to learn more about the program, areas of specialization, and how to apply. During the last portion of the session, we'll be hosting track-specific breakouts, where you'll have the opportunity to ask specific questions about the specialization that most interests you and chat with the track advisor.

After you register, we'll send you a confirmation email with a Zoom link. In the meantime, please contact ICDapply@umn.edu with any questions. We look forward to meeting you!
