First years, welcome to Middlebury! Come visit us at the Middlebury College Organic Farm (MCOF). We grow organic fruits and veggies during the fall, spring, and summer. We also host events to share knowledge and enthusiasm about food and farming. We were founded ten years ago, and have sent more and more veggies each year to Middlebury dining services, Otter Creek Bakery, Weybridge House, the Addison County food shelf, CSA share-holders, and our on-campus farm stand. The farm meets once each week during the school year, and we hold regular volunteer hours during the growing seasons. We also have a fall veggie CSA, which you are invited to join! Email mcof@middlebury.edu for more information about getting involved, coming to meetings or volunteer hours, and signing up for our fall volunteer CSA. And please come visit us at the knoll (down the hill from Ross and along the Garden Path). Check out our blog, middfarm.wordpress.com, for more pictures of the summer growing season!
