

Psi Chi Society

Psi Chi,
The National Honor Society in Psychology

Psychology majors, joint majors, and minors who meet certain entry requirements established by the national organization and the local chapter have the opportunity to join Psi Chi. The requirements for membership are:

- You must have declared a major (or joint major) in psychology or neuroscience or have a minor in psychology.
- You must have completed at least 5 psychology courses at Middlebury. (Courses which are in progress do not count toward this requirement.)
- You must be ranked in the top 35% of your class, which means having an overall cumulative GPA of at least 3.7; and you must have a psychology GPA of 3.50.

Membership in Psi Chi is an honor. A permanent record of your membership is preserved at the Psi Chi National Office and this recognition of academic excellence may be included on employment applications and on vitae and resumes, such as applications for graduate school. The Psi Chi national membership fee is $55. This one-time fee is for lifetime membership and there are no annual national dues. In addition, Psi Chi members are eligible to present research papers at national and local conventions, and may participate in undergraduate research award competitions.

Psychology majors, joint majors, and minors can expect to receive email notification in January or February concerning the application process. In the meantime, if you have questions regarding membership in Psi Chi please feel free to contact Diane Burnham, Department Coordinator, or Matt Kimble, Psi Chi faculty advisor. Also feel free to visit the Psi Chi Society website for more information regarding Psi Chi. The Psi Chi Society Application form is available at the Society's website, or by clicking below.
