Scholars in the Department of Human Development and Family Science (HDFS) conduct research about child, adolescent, and adult development; diversity and multiculturalism; family and relationship science; and health and family functioning. HDFS is home to two large centers: the Center for Family Policy and Research (CFPR) and the Child Development Laboratory (CDL).

The CFPR offers faculty and students opportunities to work on grant-funded research and intervention projects that directly serve children, families, and communities. The CDL provides early childhood education for children under six years and serves as a teaching and research laboratory.
