

Hi all,

The Learning, Memory, and Decision Lab at Brown is recruiting a research assistant to help with projects focused on understanding how the brain learns from experience in complex environments. Successful candidates will have some previous experience with programming and human subjects research. Previous experience collecting or analyzing EEG data would also be a big plus.

Those interested can see more info and apply here:

https://brown.wd5.myworkdayjobs.com/en-US/staff-careers-brown/job/Sidney-E-Frank-Hall-for-Life-Sciences/Research-Assistant_REQ184840

Any questions can be directed to me at matthew_nassar@brown.edu.

Please pass this along to anyone who you think might want to join our research team! Thanks!

Matt