

Pathways to Connect

The Center for Community Engagement is an experiential learning center at Middlebury College. Our programs prepare students for lives of meaning and impact through local, domestic, and global community connections.

We work with students, faculty, and community partners to strengthen communities and contribute to the public good.

Use this guide to navigate 40+ ways you can connect with the CCE, other students, faculty, partners, and programs.

Connect Today!

The CCE student newsletter, released each Monday, shows current opportunities across 40+ programs.

The Fall Student Involvement Fair lets students meet community partners and student organization leaders connected with the CCE.

View the list of CCE-supported organizations, find the ones which interest you most, and meet more like-minded students!

Join the Privilege & Poverty Cohort and participate in a summer internship and academic courses that address economic inequality.

Pair your community engagement with academic credit in our Community-Connected Learning course. You'll get to develop social-issue knowledge, collaborative skills, and civic identity.

See Course Catalog for community-based classes across departments.

The Center for Community Engagement helps fund community action and connection initiatives for current and returning undergraduates to explore their purpose and engage with Middlebury and global communities.

The Center for Community Engagement offers programs that connect students with intercultural and global experiences, during the school year and over the summer.
